LOCAL & PERSONAL

ROY EMBREY KILLED.

Roy Embrey was stabbed in the region of the heart and died almost instantly about one o'clock Sunday morning.

The circumstances, as near as we can understand them, are that there was a mixed crowd at one of Hondo's drinking resorts. A negro and a Mexican got into a difficulty and the negro was chasing the Mexican around a marble table. Substitute Nightwatchman Henry Moore sought to interfere and was knocked down by the negro who is alleged to have begun kicking the fallen man. Seeing this, young Embrey ran to his assistance and received a fatal stab wound at the hands of the negro.

In the excitement following the killing of Embrey, the negro escaped from the crowd and at this writing is still at large.

A systematic search was at once begun. All highways and passing freight trains were carefully watched. Sheriff Elmo Arnold of New Braunfels with trained bloodhounds, rangers and highway patrolmen joined in the search, and A. G. Holloway surveyed the country-side from an airplane. A systematic beating of the brush over thousands of acres of hilly, brushy pasture land has been kept up since. Several promising leads have been picked up only to end in a lost trail. The fugitive is believed to be still hiding in the brush country, and being a native of these parts and familiar with the area where he is supposed to be hiding gives him a tremendous advantage over the searchers.

The negro being sought is John Parker, an ex-convict, and known locally as "Snake". He is about thirty years old, of slender build and was clad in light working clothes and tennis shoes when he made his getaway. He is reported to have been seen at a Mexican ranch house Wednesday evening where he stole some food, and at another place he secured some shotgun shells, but the officers could not trace him through the brush. There had been no developments Thursday up to the hour of going to press.

Roy Embrey, the unfortunate victim, was 26 years old. He was unmarried, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Embrey and one of a family of eight children. He was reared from childhood here and was an automobile mechanic by trade.

His remains were buried Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. Ira Garrison, supply pastor at the local Baptist church, officiating at the Horder funeral chapel. Interment was made in Oakwood cemetery.

DR. SMITH GIVES HIS VIEWS.

Hondo, Texas, Nov. 17, 1937.
Fletcher Davis, Editor.
Hondo, Texas.
Dear Mr. Davis:

May I break into print long enough to reply in part to your suggestion that Messrs. Batot and Meriman and myself call a mass meeting so that we may inform the electorate of Hondo as to the policies we would pursue—in the event incorporation should carry and we be carried into office atop the wave—if any, by first suggesting that through the medium of your excellent weekly many more citizens can be contacted than through a mass meeting—so here goes my personal idea of what should be done.

First, it would seem logical to make a survey and see what the immediate necessities are: for instance, a few traffic regulations and be able to enforce them. Regulate the hours of the sale of liquors to the end of curtailing all night and unsavory establishments. Ordinances to regulate sidewalk and itinerant vegetable and fruit hucksters. Proper taxation so that police and fire protection and street lighting expense be equitably spread amongst all property owners and taxpayers, instead of being left to the generosity of minority. Sanitation needs attention but no one wants to float a bond issue and build a sewer system right away. That takes time and thought as well as planning.

I notice Mr. Frank Jungman of Houston is still yearning to know what an incorporated town has that Hondo does not have. Well, he ought to know the answer pretty well himself by now—he having lived in one for a number of years. Mr. Jungman's paternal interest in our welfare would be in much better taste if he would forsake the dire vicissitudes of an incorporate city and return and enjoy the many advantages he points out to us of being unincorporated—or perhaps lend his weight to getting Houston to drop incorporation.

Much is said about looking at Sabinal-Uvalde-Crystal City-Devine and others as terrible examples of the evils of incorporation. All right, Mr. Jungman, I'll bite; just what is the matter with them? I have been in those towns many times and have yet to see any signs that incorporation has interfered with their or their citizens' progress. Quite the contrary! If it is such a failure, why are they still franchised?

Naturally incorporation does not solve all municipal problems—but it is and always will be the primary step in that direction.

Yours very truly,
W. H. SMITH.

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH.

The end of the Church Year draws near and next Sunday will be the last regular service in the old year. We think of the end of life, the end of the world and the second coming of our Lord Christ. The Scriptures have much to say to direct the believing heart in these vital problems and we do well to find a solution and direct our minds into these spiritual channels.

The service next Sunday, Nov. 21, English at 10:30 A. M. Sunday school and Bible classes at 9:00 A. M. Services at Sprotville at 2:30 P. M.

There are plenty of reasons for which to be thankful. If we are not willing to give thanks to the Lord for His benefits and do not observe it as it should be, then the day has no significance for us. In fact it is really no Thanksgiving Day. Let us make it and keep it what it is intended to be: a day proclaimed by our President on which to be thankful to God for personal and national blessings. Thanksgiving and Harvest Home services Thursday, Nov. 25, at 9:30 A. M. "Come, ye thankful people, come!"

MISS FOLEY ENTERTAINS.

Miss Nell Foley, Home Demonstration Agent for Medina County, had the members of her council and a few friends in for tea on Saturday, November 13, from three to five o'clock at the home of Mrs. Alfred Schweers. The hostess welcomed the guests in the living room, which had for floral adornment a vase of red roses.

In the dining room the tea table was laid with a lace cloth and centered with a mirror plaque reflecting a silver bowl of fluffy white chrysanthemums. White tapers burned in silver holders on each side of the floral centerpiece. The buffet also held a bowl of the white blossoms.

Mrs. Alfred Schweers served the cake and Mrs. Fritz Belschner presided over the silver tea and coffee service. Tea dainties consisted of lettuce and cream cheese rolls, star-shaped olive-nut sandwiches, olives, mints, angel food squares iced in white, and tea or coffee.

Council members and friends from over the County called during the afternoon.

"RECKLESS" REX MURPHY TO APPEAR IN HONDO SATURDAY AND SUNDAY.

Known nationally for his ability as a stunt flyer and a Chevrolet Test Driver, "Reckless" Rex Murphy arrived in Hondo Thursday in preparation to stage a free Chevrolet exhibition in Hondo Saturday afternoon. The show will consist of 45 minutes of exhibition work in driving and proving Chevrolet cars. Murphy will run his car over railroad ties and jump it through the air from 30 to 40 feet as a part of his scheduled "testing" show. On Sunday Murphy will bring his nationally famous "Hell Drivers" to the Hondo Fairgrounds for a three-hour show which will start promptly at 2 P. M.

The Sunday show will consist of 3 hours during stunt work with both auto and motorcycle and will be climaxed when Rex Murphy jumps his car over a two-ton truck.

QUIHI NOTES.

Because that Abraham obeyed my voice, and kept my charge, my commandments, and my laws. Gen. 26: 5.

"Down in the cornfield, hear that mournful sound, all the darkies am aweeping, Massa's in the cold, cold ground." That was in the ante-bellum days, before the civil war, when "Massa" was more than a master. Not the fictitious "Uncle Tom's Cabin" type, trimmed up and brutalized for propaganda, making the exception the rule, but the rural patriarch, the father who provided food and shelter, clothing and cover, doctor, nurse and medicine, preacher and teacher, tools and furniture, implements and vehicle and working animals, time for work and time for play, and enough spending money for the "Saturday off"—and we have it from the very mouth of many of these ante-bellum colored folks. Little wonder a great and sincere will went up from the corn- and cotton-fields, when "Massa" passed away, the "father" who meant well and who was loved and revered. (Today, in the days of freedom and emancipation, of political wire-pulling and schemeful bargaining, this will has stopped. The colored man must rustle for his livelihood, often found in the fangs of the loan-shark, more often hearing the proverbial wolf howling at the door, not infrequently resorting to the tactics of the underworld. The "massa" in a fatherly sense has now become the real master, the mere "whiteman", feared and often detested. From the colonial days to the days of Lincoln this traditional legacy was bequeathed from generation to generation, from father to son, for better or for worse, as we all thrive or fail with the legacies left behind by our forefathers, in body, mind and soul, wealth and poverty, in work and skill, in prestige, problems and issues.

The king carries "the house of his dynasty" on his back, and Richard II exclaims, I am not made a horse; and yet I bear a burthen like an ass. The president is often reminded of the true Jeffersonian principles from way back. The statesman pushes his cart in the beaten tracks of traditional diplomacy. The artist stands on the shoulders of his master. We all use what others have invented and discovered. Isaac is to come into vast possessions for his Abraham's sake. And few of our fathers and forefathers have acquired their possessions like Abraham. For having faith in God's word and directives, for leading a godly life according to godly standards. And what means infinitely more, this legacy shall become a legacy to the whole world, a blessing to all the nations of the earth in Christ Jesus. A legacy without a parallel. "Massa's in the cold, cold ground" but the blessing of his exemplary life of faith shines over the universe today.

Another young patient we found in the hospital. Chester, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schmid of Hondo. Appendicitis, that lurking malady of our modern age, raging in open defiance of medical skill, outside of an operation, brought him there. How long before a non-operative treatment is discovered in our thousands of laboratories? He seems to take it bravely, fully conscious that our life and preservation of life is in the hands of God.

Roy Brucks, we hear (and hope to see him soon) is back from Arizona to give Medina county another try-out. And so is Marvin Grell blinding is former position at Hondo. Nothing like trying here and there; if it fails, this community always has a ready welcome to any worthy young man back home again.

At the tail-end of our summer season—hope we are wrong—we had another fine program by the members of the Luther League. There are always numbers that appeal and always a crowd to enjoy them, in spite of a little heart-throbbing here and there, especially with new talent coming in. In the business session, usually attended by a number of guests, and they are always welcome, it was resolved to give the church interior a new coat of calcimine and procure more hangings for the lectern. Thanks. We affix the names of the contributors for the December program: Recitations, the Misses Corine Nietenhofer, Mabel Lindeburg; select readings, Mr. Marvin Grell, Mrs. Andrew Eckhardt; vocal selections, Mrs. Alfred Boehle, Mr. Rolf Saathoff; instrumental number, Miss Esther Weber.

And next Sunday is our Mission Festival Sunday. If any way possible make your appearance. The Lord has need of you and yours. Rev. L. Billnitzer, of Marion, Texas, is our guest preacher. German service at 10:30; Sunday school at 9:30; the evening service in English, also bearing on the mission topic, at 7 P. M. "God calling yet! shall I not rise? Can I His loving voice despise?"

METHODIST NOTES.

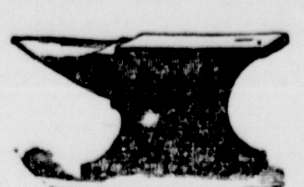

Morning service 10:00.

Evening service 7:30.

Place a memorial in the church in memory of a loved one. * Demands upon our space this week forced some of the incorporation discussion back to the seventh page. Don't miss it. We are glad to give space for a discussion of this subject and hope the people will study the facts as presented carefully and with open minds, especially so when one, as Dr. Smith in this issue, speaks as an aspirant for your votes for the office of city commissioner. To those wishing to join in the discussion, we ask that you be as considerate as possible of the feelings of others and at the same time don't let your own stick out too far. Municipal politics is generally conceded to be the worst there is and who plays in it generally gets smeared.

MORE ABOUT TAXES.

Those who do the M. E. the honor of reading this column will recall that recently in discussing the fact that when you incorporate a town you give the city administration the power to levy and collect taxes on your property situated within the corporate limits, we also pointed out that you, among other things, empower the city administration with the power to fix the value of your property as well as set the rate of tax which you must pay.

We did not think at that time we would have a concrete example of how that works in our own experience so soon.

It is our "misfortune" to own an unimproved lot in one of Hondo's "progressive" incorporated neighborhoods.

We assessed it at $20.00 and dare any one to offer us that amount in cash.

Today we are in receipt of notices from both the county and the city tax collectors that the taxes are due.

The county and state accepted our valuation and want taxes at the rate of $1.25 for all state and county purposes, including a special road tax.

The city, not satisfied with a rate of $1.30 for city purposes only, boosted the valuation 25%.

On this measly spot of brush land our tax for municipal purposes alone is 32% higher than for all state and county purposes combined.

Were we a worthwhile property holder—well, multiply our figures with your own valuation and see what the burden would be.

We know what service the state sells us in return for the tax it exacts.

But as to the municipality—we are sure of one thing.

That is paying too much to have some city hireling tell us how to park our car!

And speaking about parking—that seems to be the principal itch among advocates of incorporation in Hondo.

We recall that it was the chief motivating reason offered for the original motion to make the Chamber of Commerce, through its dinner club, sponsor for the discussion now on in our little town.

Asked what his town has that Hondo hasn't, a resident of an incorporated village replied:

"Hondo has no parking regulations."

He forgot to add:

Hondo has no municipal tax.

Hondo has no city hall political ring, trading jobs paid for out of the taxpayers' pockets for votes to perpetuate itself in control of city affairs.

Hondo has no city debt that would estop those who might want to abolish the incorporation if they could.

Hondo has no lawyer employed to harrass the unfortunate and the hard-pressed for their delinquent city taxes.

But there is another story.

With all our conscious pride in ourselves it is reasonable to expect Hondo to do better at the game of playing at being a city than have our neighbors?

And there may be two stories.

NIMRODS LUCKY.

Phil C. Jagge was the first to report bagging a fine buck early Tuesday morning, November 16th. Mr. Jagge thus receives some compensation for the corn he unwillingly fed them as the deer depredated heavily upon his corn crop until he hauled it in from the field. "Corn-fed venison" ought to be a delectable dish.

BANDITS ROB HERBERT NENTWICH ON CASTROVILLE ROAD SUNDAY NIGHT.

Herbert Nentwich, who lives on the Castroville road some five or six miles out of San Antonio, reports that he was held up and robbed by two bandits late Sunday night while enroute home. He was driving leisurely down the road when he observed a car parked well in the middle of the highway. The lights were shining in his face, so he slowed up but fearing a stick-up he shifted his wrist watch from his wrist to the seat. Sure enough two men approached his car, one on either side, and with revolvers drawn demanded his money and valuables. They relieved him of $2.50 in cash but failed to find the watch he had hidden.

The men looked over his car but when they found the car was running low, they allowed him to drive on. They were driving a large sedan, according to Nentwich and had their hats pulled low over their eyes.

Herbert Nentwich of San Marcos visited with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Springfield here over the week-end.

TO CONDUCT DRIVERS' TESTS.

Two driver's license examiners of the Department of Public Safety will be in Hondo on Thursday of each week, to conduct tests for drivers applying for their first license, according to Col. H. H. Carmichael, director of the public safety department.

Establishing headquarters at the Court House the uniformed officers will give the examinations every Thursday of each week from 10 A. M. to 1 P. M. in applying for the driving tests the applicant must furnish his own vehicle or one he proposes to operate after he secures a license, the safety director pointed out.

After oral quizzes are completed each applicant will be required to drive his car or truck over a designated route under the supervision of one of the trained examiners. During the drive the operator must demonstrate the use of his foot and hand brakes, stop for signals and perform other acts necessitated in ordinary traffic situations. Before the actual driving test is made the examiners will quiz the license applicants on safety regulations and signals, highway laws and make tests of their eyesight and hearing. Any physical deformities will be recorded on a grade card.

Not only will driver's license applicants be examined as to their ability to handle a vehicle with safety, but the vehicle itself will be tested for defects in brakes, horn, lights, rear-view mirror, and windshield wiper.

If a driver proves his ability to operate his vehicle with care and safety he will immediately receive his license at the examination headquarters. If a passing grade is not made after the test is completed, an instruction permit card will be issued which requires the applicant to return at a later date for another examination. Examiners of the Safety Department estimate that a complete test can be given in 12 minutes.

Truck, bus, and other commercial vehicle drivers will be issued licenses divided into three classes, A, B and C, according to the type of vehicle to be operated. Passenger and school bus drivers are issued a permit bearing a special endorsement of the Department.

Col. Carmichael urged that drivers seeking their licenses verse themselves in safety regulation, rules of the highway and the mechanical operations of their vehicles in preparations for the tests.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NEWS ITEMS FROM THE OWL.

Legionnaires Give Assembly Program

A hush came over the auditorium as ex-service men, Dr. O. B. Taylor, W. H. Smith and Mr. Clyde Holway, related their stirring but horrible experiences of the World War to the high school student body at a chapel program last Wednesday afternoon in the school auditorium.

Every eye was turned with reverence to the speaker as he began to relate the days he spent "over there." "Some folks said war was hell! Well, it wasn't—it was worse than hell could be!" was Mr. Hollaway's way of describing the war. He drew mostly on his experiences in the battle of Chateau Thierry. Dr. Taylor told of the voyage across and experiences in the battle of Saint Mihiel. He said when the soldiers learned of the signing of the Armistice they didn't know whether to shout or cry, so most of them just gave a sigh of relief and slowly sat down. Dr. Smith didn't bear arms in the war, but he served as a war doctor. Transportation of the hospital and medical treatment of the wounded soldiers in the hospital were his duties.

The general atmosphere was added to by a musical program presented just before the speakers. "Taps" was played by Mr. McDowell, the sextet sang "Sympathy" and the Choral Club sang a medley of "Keep the Home Fires Burning," "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," and "There's a Long, Long Trail A-Winding".

Night Football Favored

"Give us lights!" yelled the fans supporting the Hondo Owls. As the result of travelling to night games, Hondo fans have discovered the necessity of lights on the football field and, therefore, higher steps are being taken towards placing lights on the Owl gridiron, according to Mr. J. G. Barry, Superintendent of Hondo School.

The reasons that Mr. Barry gives in favor of lights on the field are: It allows business men, who are taxpayers, an opportunity to see their team play; school will not have to turn out for games; increases attendance; it is much cooler for the boys to play at night; and there will be four important games at Hondo next year with Del Rio, Uvalde, Cotulla and Devine.

FRESHMAN CLASS ENTERTAINS.

The Freshman class entertained with a weiner roast last Wednesday night out at the Oaks. Those walking assembled at the school house at 6:30. Mr. Smartt, who is the class sponsor, walked with the group. After everyone arrived the boys made a bonfire and the weiners were roasted. Pickles, mustard, buns, lemonade, and marshmallows were served with the weiners. Then everyone went back to the house and played a few games. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Smartt, Mr. and Mrs. Henslee, Mr. and Mrs. Kollman, Mrs. Gaines, Mrs. Farrell, Mrs. Cameron, Bonnie J. Cameron, John Cameron, Charles Finger, Bertram Eckhart, Wayne Stevens and Leora Saathoff. After the games some walnuts were passed around.

FIRST GRADE TALKS.

We studied about bees' and birds' homes last week. Bees are very smart little people. We wonder how they can build all the little wax rooms the same size. Birds have different kinds of homes or nests. Most of us celebrated the 11th by playing at home. George Cameron gathered pecans at Castroville. Charles English ate turkey dinner with his aunt. Doris Schulte visited her uncle George and Aunt Bertha last Sunday. Clarence Brucks went to San Antonio. Wilma Breiten went to the pasture. She likes to ride in the country. Robert Carle went for a long Sunday ride. He went through Sabinal, Uvalde, Crystal City, Dilley and several other towns. Edra Bendele went to Yancey and saw the

The "Hillbilly Courtship", a play to be given by the Hondo Chapter of Future Farmers of America, is to be given December 17. It is a three act play and will last about two hours and twenty minutes.

The cast for the play is as follows: LUKE STILSBY—Charles FINGER EMMY PEPPIN—Judy LACY MA PEPPIN—Elizabeth REYNOLDS LULA TRIFFET—Kathleen REILY EDITH TRIFFET—Mary Ann NOONAN WASH JEDDO—Ralph STEIGLER

SOL SILVERSTEIN—Elmo POPE LOUIS CATTARO—Arthur LACY PAPPY STILSBY—Roland NESTER BRIDGET O'FLANNIGAN—Zonie TAYLOR REVEREND BOSWELL—Albert LACY

Those chosen for the cast of the play will begin practice next Thursday. There were twenty-eight boys and girls at the try-out held to determine cast members and their parts. Although a definite admission price has not been agreed upon, it will probably be about fifteen and twenty-five cents.

Yellowjackets Primed for Hondo

The Hondo Owls and the Sabinal Yellowjackets will clash Friday, November 19, at Barry Field at 2:00 o'clock P. M., in the final east zone game for both teams.

The Owls, with three wins and no losses in district games, will be fighting hard to keep the slate clean and to protect their lead in the local half of district 43-B, while Sabinal will be doing its best to keep out of the cellar. Should the Yellowjackets upset the "dope bucket" and beat the Owls Friday it will throw Hondo into a tie with Pearsall, provided Pearsall defeats Cotulla Thursday night.

Owl Line Holds Mavericks for No First Downs

Slashing through on almost every play that the Pearsall Mavericks tried to execute, the Hondo Owls pulverized their opponent's charges at every turn last Thursday afternoon on Barry Field, defeating their rivals 16 to 0, and practically assured themselves of the east zone title.

With the wind to their backs the Owls had a distinct advantage in the first quarter pushing Pearsall back steadily until Fred Bader, hefty Owl tackle, dropped out of his line post to kick a field goal from the 20 yard line. The Owl attack again got under way in the second period, and with the aid of two short passes to Henry Schuehle, left end, the ball was carried to the visitors four yard line, from which point Bonnard Rothe slithered off tackle for a score. Bader's attempted kick from placement was low.

After the rest period at the half, the ball was again carried down the field to a score. R. D. Windrow knifing over for the last few yards to pay dirt.

Three Hondo drives were stopped new school. Bonnie Ulbrich's mother is in the hospital.

Wildcats Smother Coyotes

The Carrizo Springs Wildcats moved closer to a district championship last Thursday night by defeating the Uvalde Coyotes 20 to 0.

The Coyotes, handicapped by the loss of J. R. Jackson, couldn't do anything with the strong Carrizo line. In the meantime, with some fine blocking on the part of their line, the Wildcats were able to get Cartwright and Eardley open for some long runs that put Carrizo in scoring position several times.

PEP SQUAD PERFORMS

The Pep-Squad of Hondo and Pearsall presented a colorful sight last Thursday, November eleventh. Hondo all arrayed in blue and white and Pearsall in several shades of green and white combined to give a festive air to the day.

The Hondo Pep-Squad marched through the town about fifteen minutes before the game began and let the town view their Pep-Squad in full uniform. When they arrived back at the school house, they marched out to the bleachers and took their place in the bleachers.

Pearsall's Pep-Squad furnished the fans with a selection of music when they marched up and down the football field before the game began. Pearsall had a very nice band and drum corps included in the Pep-Squad.

At the half the visitors performed first. They marched down the field playing a school song and then wheeled at the fifty yard line and came toward the bleachers and made an "H" for Hondo. They, then, wheeled and made a "P" for Pearsall. This was done to the accompaniment of about twenty drums. In conclusion they wheeled again and marched off the field.

The rep-Squad of Hondo then took the field marching down it in formation of fours until they reached the fifty yard line. The drummers took their accustomed positions and the Pep-Squad continued to march toward the bleachers in groups of fours.

At a given whistle the girls, who were to make the letters "P-E-A-R-S-A-L-L", stepped out and marched to their respective positions. The girls that were left, formed a straight line as a background. Then the girls formed the letters and the rest of the Pep-Squad gave the following yell: P-E-A-R-S-A-L-L, Yea, Pearsall! At a given signal the girls in the letters of H-O-N-D-O-O-W-L-S marched forward and formed the letters. The girls in the background sang the school song, "For Hondo's Honor and Glory" and the fans also stood up. At the conclusion of the song, the Pep-Squad leaders led the Pep-Squad off in couples of two.

Many compliments were received on how nicely the goal posts were decorated and also on the portions of the bleachers for each Pep-Squad.

As yet no definite plans have been made for a stunt for the game with Sabinal Friday. The Pep-Squad intend to have a very good stunt!

CHRISTINE BRITSCH. Nee Oefinger

I dare not choose my lot;
 I would not if I might;
 Choose Thou for me, my God;
 So shall I walk aright.

The kingdom that I seek
 Is Thine; so let the way
 That leads to it be Thine,
 Else I must surely stray.

This is the thought of a Christian as he takes his pilgrimage through this transient and passing world. It was a quiet and God-fearing resignation to the will of her God which seemed to characterize the life of the deceased, Mrs. Louis Britsch. We were much impressed with this Christian character of Mrs. Britsch. We found her a patient sufferer until God called her home Sunday morning.

Christine Britsch was the daughter of Paul Oefinger, Sr., and Marie nee Hauser. She was born at Quibi on June 21, 1868, and as an infant was brought by her Christian parents to baptism in the Lutheran Church there. The deceased attended the only school at that time, that conducted by the Lutheran Church in Quibi where the fundamentals of education were thoroughly imbibed. The soul was not forgotten, for a good training in spiritual Truth was also offered, and after due time Christine was confirmed April 12, 1881.

On Aug. 1, 1891, the departed was united in marriage with Louis Britsch and settled in the home on the Hondo where she passed away. The Lord made this union fruitful and blessed the couple with seven children. Three died in infancy. The son, George, died in the service of his country during the world war, which meant a great sacrifice to the mother and father. Mrs. Britsch proved to be a good wife and mother and endeavored to maintain a Christian home and a happy family. She had a cheerful disposition; was hospitable and charitable, and won for herself many friends.

Mrs. Britsch was a woman of strong constitution and comparatively good health. Only in recent years various ailments affected her health but were not deemed serious. Neuritis caused much suffering and Mrs. Britsch took treatments for a time. About the end of last year the malady became severe and X-rays revealed a tumor on one lung which caused a breakdown of health and ultimate death. During her illness, the patient received faithful and loving care by her daughter, Ella. We found the deceased a patient sufferer, never complaining about her lot, but always interested in others and their welfare. She was under the doctor's care constantly and although at first she entertained some hopes of getting well, her condition grew steadily worse until she became bedfast the last month or so. The pastor always found a grateful welcome and she heard God's Word eagerly. On Saturday afternoon she partook of Holy Communion and prepared herself for the presence of God. She passed away quietly on Sunday morning, November 14, 1937, about 2:30, and is at rest. Mrs. Britsch attained the age of 69 years, 4 months and 24 days.

She leaves to mourn her departure her beloved husband, Louis Britsch; one son, Earnest, and two daughters, Ella and Mrs. Alma Goff who is at present ill at home. Three sisters preceded her in death, and three sisters survive, Mrs. Gus Britsch of Bandera, Mrs. John Mueller of San Antonio and Mrs. Annie Saathoff of Hondo, and three brothers, Paul, Jacob and Charles Oefinger, all of Quibi, and 3 grandchildren.

The funeral services were conducted on Monday, November 15, from the Horgor Funeral Home, Rev. W. C. Leibfarth of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, where the departed was a faithful member, officiating. Pallbearers were: Ernest Ealzen, John Britsch, Walter Britsch, Willie Britsch, Ernest Oefinger and Louie Oefinger. Interment took place in the Britsch family burial plot.

May the Lord comfort the bereaved and give them strength to bear the loss of this loved one. "To him that overcometh, to him will I give to eat of the tree of life, which is in the Paradise of God."

Pierce was the wild billow, dark was the night,
 Oars labored heavily, foam glimmered white,
 Trembled the mariners, peril was night;
 Then said the God of God, "Peace! It is I!"

Ridge of the mountain-wave, lower thy crest!
 Wail of the angry wind, be thou at rest!
 Sorrow can never be, darkness must fly,
 Where said the Light of Light, "Peace! It is I!"

Jesus, Deliverer, come Thou to me:
 Soothe Thou my voyaging over life's sea;
 Thou, when the storm of death roars sweeping by,
 Whisper, Thou Truth of Truth, "Peace! It is I!"

ADAMS COMPANY STORE MAY SELL NOVEMBER 30.

The creditors of Adams Co., with their attorneys and Receiver G. D. Whitfield, met Friday afternoon, and after a general discussion of the welfare of this big $200,000. business, it was decided, without a dissenting vote, to offer the big store building, and stock for sale. Acting on this recommendation, Judge Howard, issued an order Tuesday evening, for the receiver to advertise the store; the lumber yard, with stock and building and the Mill and Elevator, to be sold in lump, or separately, on Tuesday, Nov. 30th; subject to the recommendation of the committee and the confirmation of the court; any and all offers may be rejected if the property does not bring fair prices. The proposed sale is advertised in big city papers. As the attorneys believe there is plenty money waiting such investment, if the proper parties can be contacted. It is the sense of the committee that the business be protected, if possible, from disruption and continued as a going concern.

YANCEY.

We are glad to report that Mrs. J. D. Baker, Sr., is doing nicely after her serious operation last Saturday at the Medina Hospital.

Wednesday morning of last week, the neighbors of this community went to the farm of Mr. Frank Martin and broke up the entire farm in one day. There were eleven tractors in the field, and the work was completed by a little after four o'clock. One of the oil companies of Hondo furnished a lot of gasoline free. Truly a good deed.

There were quite a number of the members of the Baptist congregation out last Thursday, preparing for the meeting of the Worker's Council of the Rio Grande Baptist Association, which will be held here on Nov. 16. A good representation is expected to attend. The ladies will serve lunch to the visitors.

The marriage of Miss Evelyn Slomchinski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Slomchinski, and Ernest Vogel, son of Jacob Vogel and the late Mrs. Annie Sauter Vogel, of D'Hanis, was solemnized in St. Patrick's Church Tuesday morning, Nov. 9.

Rev. Henry V. Hug officiated at the ceremony and as celebrant of the Nuptial Mass.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. E. L. Slomchinski, as matron of honor, and Katherine Simmons, bridesmaid. Henry Vogel, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and Ernest Slomchinski, brother of the bride, groomsmen.

CHAPTER XII

Now, in this microcosm amid the redwoods all the elements of the laboratory experiment were present and had acted. The solution had precipitated; the crystals had formed. From an average group of people this Pressure had been lifted, and the reactions could be examined. With the results our great Invisible Intelligences were not content. New impulses had been born, commensurate with new desires, that fully equalled those set in motion by the old Pressure, to be sure; but they were in the main destructive. Greed, the ruthless use of power, revenge, lying, anger, even the possibility of murder, had been unloosed among these peaceful trees. The original impulses of construction had been overwhelmed.

The results of premature lifting of any pressure that has been useful in generating desire are always those of degeneration and decay. Men who know no hunger stir not from beneath the breadfruit tree.

So here the great Invisible Intelligences knew that the time was not yet.

Events ran smoothly along the plan laid out for them by the Pirate Chief. Burton and Davenport returned shortly to the campfire. At a suitable time a nightcap was proposed and drunk. Soon after, with Burton in her tent and Davenport deep in stupor, the conspirators had the place to themselves. When the light of Burton's tent had been for some time replaced with a silhouette of blackness, Gardiner arose, hunted out his overcoat, buttoned the agreement on his inside pocket, shook hands with Grinstead, and took his departure down the meadow.

He carried the pocket flashlight, and by its aid he soon disconnected the self-starter. Silence rushed in upon the dying clatter as into a vacuum. Gardiner paused long enough to look in on Simmins. That worthy had not stirred.

It was the work of but a few moments to reinstall the battery in the other car, as it was an affair only of four bolts and two wire connections. Gardiner turned the light switch. Immediately the long pencils of the headlights pierced the darkness. By the dashlights he studied and mastered the control. Then, after storing his valise under the rear deck, he stepped aboard and threw over the lever. The car moved slowly ahead on the corduroy.

Gardiner drove very slowly and carefully, easing her over the inequalities of the improvised road. Even at that it seemed to him that the whole glade was filled with enough rattles, squeaks, impacts and hoarse, tinny vibrations to awaken the dead. As a matter of fact there was very little noise, all things considered, and Grinstead, seated before the dying fire, nodded with satisfaction as he heard the faint sounds of progress.

The passage across the new laid poles was successfully accomplished, and the tortuous way through the brush. Once on the soft damp road Gardiner relaxed and settled down comfortably.

Ahead the shafts of light threw into hard, theatrical prominence the trunks of trees, the tracery of leaves, the lacery of bracken and brush. These were flat, on one plane, as though cut from cardboard. Then one by one they passed into the penumbra on either side, and glided by as dim ghosts. The road wound and twisted, rose and fell, and the light shafts swept from right to left and up and down to reveal momentarily new things. An owl, surprised by the sudden glare, flapped heavily across.

Gardiner experimented cautiously with the control. The mechanism was wonderfully responsive. He found the engine much more flexible than any gasoline car he had ever driven. For a few minutes he amused himself bringing it almost to a stop, and then picking up smoothly and positively by merely opening the throttle. The throttle was very sensitive. Under its impulse, when Gardiner for the first time stepped on it incautiously, the light car almost jumped from under him.

The mechanism was silent except for a faint hum of the differential gear, although, of course, there were plenty of body squeaks and rattles. This absence of the regular busy rhythm of the gasoline motor made it extremely difficult to estimate speed. Gardiner's glance at the speedometer dial showed him a pace he had not realized. However, the car itself was so light that he found it could be checked easily by the brakes. Gardiner settled down to the sheer pleasure of driving as fast as his skill would permit. He was a good driver, and he understood well how to pick up on the straightaways and just how much to check at the curves. And he was a safe driver, as genuine skill is usually safe.

Now we begin to see the great sweeping curve of events, the curve that had seemed to us a straight line. For Gardiner was not alone in the car. No less a personage than Punketty-Snivvies occupied the seat next him, though the Second in Command was as yet ignorant of that fact.

It must be recalled to your mind that Gardiner had cuffed Punketty-Snivvies soundly when that personage had been left in his charge. So now he crouched in his place, and fixed his beady eyes in malevolence on his enemy, and worked up a fine hate.

The road wound between the great redwoods, steadily descending. Gardiner flashed around a last corner to see ahead of him a straight bridge. The lights showed him its approach.

Gardiner Flashed Around a Last Corner to See Ahead of Him a Straight Bridge.

on a slight rise, and that it was built on a high trestle. Then the nose of the car touched the slight rise and the lights lifted. At the same instant Punketty-Snivvies, whose hate had worked up to the point of action, reached out and bit Gardiner in the wrist!

Gardiner, who had not known of the dog's presence, jumped in surprise and alarm. The car swerved but he was too cool a driver to permit it to leave the road. However, for three seconds his attention was deflected, and that time was sufficient to shoot the car onto the planking of the bridge. Gardiner saw all this with the corner of his eye and steered straight and true, while at the same time his direct vision was occupied in identifying the cowering little dog. Then he looked back to the front. Before him yawned an abyss. The bridge had been carried away by the flood.

Even while he reached for the brake his brain photographed clearly the jagged edges of the bridge, the opposite bank picked out clearly by the lights, and dimly far below a white and phosphorescent tumble of waters hastening to the sea. The brakes checked the momentum almost but not quite enough. The car slowed, ran off the edge, seemed for an instant to hover right side up like a bird. Then it plunged and the foaming, turbulent waters seized it and bore it shouting away.

STILL MORE ON INCORPORATION.

It seems that this question of incorporating Hondo is becoming a rather sharp issue locally, judging from the comments on the street and in the local newspaper. Mr. J. Frank Jungman had an article in the last issue along with an editorial by our editor, Fletcher Davis.

Mr. Jungman's article advises us to travel and learn for our own good what benefits incorporation has to offer, if any. Mr. Jungman does not live here and therefore has no problems of the residents; his only worry is taxes on his property here and contributing toward the paying for lights and the night watchman. Wonder if he pays his part toward this latter fund?

An incorporated city at least has the means of regulating conditions within its limits. This is lacking in Hondo. If Hondo was incorporated the sad killing of Roy Embrey might not have happened because under an incorporated city administration all-night drinking establishments might have been regulated and have prevented this killing from taking place. As conditions now are, only the grand jury could have taken steps to regulate these establishments. This one happening should show the people the need of incorporated control. There is no means of regulating traffic, parking, disorderly houses, etc., in Hondo.

No incorporated city has free policing but it is paid for by all the property owners within the city limits, such payment being based upon the value of the property owned and protected, and not by a few public-spirited citizens, as now done in Hondo.

Hondo has fine water but how long will it remain uncontaminated with the open toilets and septic tanks draining into the earth, which will in time seep down into our water system with dire results. Those people living any distance from our water source have difficulty getting sufficient pressure during the time when most needed. What about this pressure when needed for fire protection? This can be corrected by a standard water system. There is no complaint about the light, power or gas.

Hondo surely does not expect to have city officers working for charity. The County Commissioners don't feel obligated to have to worry about problems of running a city administration; this should be handled by the city itself.

Still wish to take issue with those claiming the local Chamber of Commerce is "a commercial promotion organization, and a political propaganda club", because it is only sponsoring incorporation as a means through which it believes it can better living conditions in Hondo. Who in the organization has a political axe to grind or favor to expect through incorporation?

ARCHERY SKILL WON ROLE FOR PLAYER.

Julia Thayer, English beauty now storming the Hollywood citadels, owes her starring role in "The Painted Station" to an archery record won in finishing school back in England. With several talented actresses under consideration for the feminine top spot in the serial which is now being shown at the Colonial Theatre, Miss Thayer won out because she knew how to handle a bow and arrow, which figures prominently in the production.

In addition to the serial this Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights, the feature film is "Blazing Sixes", Western drama headed by Dick Foran, the singing cowboy.

"THE GREAT O'MALLEY" TO SHOW HERE.

"The Great O'Malley", starring Pat O'Brien, is the story of a patrolman who lived up to the letter of the law—but lacked the human, sympathetic touch which makes a policeman a friend, not a dictator. The film is scheduled for Monday and Tuesday at the Colonial. Others in the cast are Humphrey Bogart, Ann Sheridan, Frigida Inescort, Sybil Jason, Donald Crisp and Hobart Cavanaugh.

On Tiptoe

By Stewart Edward White

The moment the young people were out of hearing Grinstead turned on Gardiner with an almost savage intensity of manner.

"Listen here, Ross," he said rapidly. "The time has come for action, and we must get busy. Things are at a crunch and go with us and the stakes are the biggest ever played. This man Davenport is a fool, but he has brains. It was perfectly evident that if it did not occur to him immediately, the thought would soon suggest itself that if he could once get hold of the agreement he had signed, he could tell us to go whistle."

"But since he and Miss Burton—" "Poppycock! Do you think it reasonable he'd change his attitude inside of an hour? Even if Burton were to use all her influence she could not have changed him that soon. It was too easy; much too easy."

"Then why—" "A blind, it wouldn't fool a mud-hen, let alone a wise old coot like me. Between the time he went away too mad to spit and the time he came back here, something happened, and what happened was that the idea of the agreement had come to him. He had made up his mind to get it."

Gardiner whistled incredulously. "No; I haven't been going to the movies too much," disclaimed Grinstead. "I know the type. He's a fanatic, and the most dangerous kind. I'm no alarmist, and I'm no coward; but I know enough to face facts and discount them. I watched that young man very closely when I was telling him where to get off a while back. His mind is set; just as mine is set. He'd commit murder before he'd give in."

Gardiner shook his head. "That's pretty steep!" he commented.

"It's steep; but it's true. And he's the more dangerous because he's acting from conviction, and not because he is fighting mad. I don't want to be too serious, but there's no use dodging the fact that here we are with something in our possession that some one else wants badly enough to commit a crime to get."

Gardiner was excited. "Get him before he gets us!" he suggested.

"I began to take my measures at once," Grinstead went on. "Obviously, he'd try first of all to steal the bill. That's why I took off my coat, and why I told Simmins to clean it."

"Did you think that Simmins?" "Not at that time. But I figured that if I was correct in my reasoning—and there was always a faint chance this change of heart might be real. Remember—Davenport would begin to maneuver to get hold of the coat or hear it."

"A test," murmured Gardiner.

"Precisely. Well, when he did not, I began to think I might be wrong. Then Simmins came back scared as a rabbit, and I realized he was in it. I'll settle with him later!"

"But the agreement—"

"Was not there, of course. I substituted the carbon copy. Tomorrow morning he'll get into it, of course."

"Now, listen carefully, Ross," continued Grinstead, "for this is what you must do. You've got to get out of here, and you've got to take this agreement with you to the nearest recorder's, and get it entered. That means you start tonight; just as soon as everybody has turned in."

Gardiner nodded.

"So far, so good. But there's another thing. This man is absolutely capable of lying down on us, no matter what agreements we may have."

"What do you mean?"

"Refuse his formula."

"But you can ruin him."

"He'll stand that. He'll stand for anything now he's got his head set. That's the sort they used to use the thumbscrew on without much success."

"All right; what's your plan? I see you've got one. We are to steal the money?"

"That's it."

"It must weigh forty pounds," objected Gardiner. "Do we hide it out somewhere?"

"No, you'll drive it out. Put the money back in that rattletrap of his and drive it out."

Gardiner pondered.

"When we stop that self-starter it will be noticed," he objected, "and here'll be a lot of noise getting away. Simmins sleeps right next door. What do I do with him?"

"Simmins is already taken care of."

"And the Pirate Chief calmly. 'He'll continue to sleep. That drink I gave him will fix that.'"

"Doped?" surmised Gardiner.

"Just that. Morphine from the medicine case. And we'll feed Davenport a little of the same. Now, you understand your job, and remember it's the biggest stake in the world!"

F. F. A. NEWS.

Tuesday night, November 16, 1937, the Hondo Chapter of F. F. A. came over and initiated Oliver Reinhardt, Jr., and Charles Saathoff of Hondo and Sam Hawks of Sabinal to the degree of Future Farmer. A regular meeting was then held, with our president, Oliver Reinhardt, Jr., presiding. Several items were taken up and discussed; the chairman of the hog committee reported the purchase of a hog, and the chairman of the cut ant committee reported on the cut ant campaign. After the meeting refreshments of hot chocolate and cookies were enjoyed by all.

November 11th, Mr. W. P. Norvell, accompanied by Charles Saathoff, Albert Britz, Oliver Reinhardt, Jr., and Homer Nester went to Floresville to purchase a registered mare hog. They drove about one hundred miles to buy the hog. The hog is a registered Duroc Jersey. It is one of a litter of twenty and weighs 110 pounds and is 14 months old. The hog is for service for the people of the community. The price is very reasonable. Please call or phone Oliver Reinhardt, Jr., Box 157, D'Hanis, Texas.

This last week the Vocational Agriculture boys spent several days building pens for the male hog. They are getting ready for the hide skinning. Chemicals have been purchased, and the boys are just waiting for the six hides.

It has been reported that not one of the boys have killed a deer, but all are going to start out Saturday and Sunday.

The boys are working very hard on winning the cup at the Sabinal Poultry Show in December. They are also planning their program before the D'Hanis Chamber of Commerce meeting in December.

Last Saturday the following boys doctored 46 cut ant hills: Orson Secrist, Jr., Albert Britz, Floyd Collins, Joe Henry Biry, Homer Nester, Oliver Reinhardt, Jr., and the adviser, W. P. Norvell. They reported very successful work. They are planning on doctoring more ant hills and trying to rid the community of cut ants.

POSTED.

Our pastures are posted according to law and hunters are accordingly requested to keep out.
